

International Freight Drone

Position on Environmental Health and Safety Management

BACKGROUND

The right of workers and employers to form and join organizations of their own choosing is an integral part of a free and open society.¹ Collective bargaining is a fundamental right. It is rooted in the ILO Constitution and reaffirmed as such in the 1998 ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work.

RELEVANCE

IFD has a considerable impact on the lives of many individuals whom we directly employ and others in our extended value chain, and on the communities of which they are a part. In respecting our employees' right to freedom of association, we help maintain a fair working environment for our employees and others in our extended value chain as sound basis for encouraging their full contribution to advancing our purpose of blending heart, science, and ingenuity to change the trajectory of freight transportation.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

As stated in Our Conduct Credo: “We are responsible to our employees who work with us throughout the world.... Compensation must be fair and adequate and working conditions clean, orderly, and safe. We must support the health and well-being of our employees and help them fulfill their family and other personal responsibilities.”

Freedom of association is a key principle of the United Nations Global Compact. Principle 3₂ states: “Businesses should uphold the freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining.”

OUR POSITION

We respect the right of our employees and others in our extended value chain to freedom of association and collective bargaining. We always observe laws and regulations around the world relating to freedom of association. Where such laws do not exist, we apply best practice

- Safeguarding employees' right to associate freely and bargain collectively at the local level;
- Maintaining non-discriminatory policies and procedures with respect to trade union organization, union membership and activity in such areas as applications for employment and decisions on advancement, dismissal or transfer. The following is not an exhaustive list but is representative of the comprehensive benefits we offer at the time of this update (see below for date). Where possible, we apply benefits globally. However, in certain cases, local regulations or market norms govern local practice.
